THE BUILDER

Jeffrey David, left, working toward his Eagle Scout rank, has completed construction of a walkway he designed to provide safe access to Gellert Park from Callan Boulevard in Daly City. With Davis on the new stairway are, left to right, Al Kane, city parks and recreation commissioner and advisor to the project; Jack Hayhurst, Boy Scout unit commissioner; and assisting Boy Scouts Dennis Murphy, Luther Yee and Dan Davis.

39 Workers Will Lose City Cars

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Nobody gets a free ride in Daly City anymore.

As of July 31, 39 city employees will lose their assigned vehicles and 16 others no longer will have flat-rate car allowances.

The City Council also voted Monday to eliminate most travel allowances, discontinue city memberships in all organizations except the League of California Cities, stop subscriptions to many publications and replace the city's police cars every three years instead of every other year.

As has been the case at every council meeting since Proposition 13 passed, a couple of hundred citizens packed themselves into every niche of City Hall within earshot of the proceedings.

City Manager David Rowe proposed that the city reimburse city employees and officials who drive their cars on city business at the rate of 15 cents per mile instead of providing city-owned cars or paying car allowances.

Questioned by a dubious citizen, Philip Rogers, Rowe said the city would pay out only $37,188 at 15 cents per mile to 39 employees who previously were assigned cars, based on annual mileage shown on those cars. The cost of renting the 39 vehicles for a year is $91,800.

Ernie Pezzola, another resident, said he thought the mayor should continue to receive his annual car allowance of $1,750, but Mayor William Schumacher declined.

Bill Wade of the Westlake Homeowners Association asked why five community center representatives were given car allowances ranging from $480 to $1,440 per year.

Other city officials receiving car allowances include the city librarian ($900 per year), three recreation supervisors (each at $1,145 per year), the director of finance ($1,560) and city clerk ($1,200). The allowances cost $17,715 annually.

A citizen said the council would be penny-wise and pound foolish to eliminate all assigned city vehicles. He remarked that the fire chief needs an identifiable vehicle equipped with a siren and radio and that other city employees need trucks to do their jobs.

Rowe said there would be a pool of city vehicles available for some city functions and that radios would be installed in cars as needed.

Another resident asked why Rowe needs a city vehicle to drive home. Eighteen of the 39 city employees with assigned vehicles are permitted to take them home at night.

Councilman James Tucker replied that Rowe often works on weekends.

Conrad Pavellas commented that the city manager tends to be unreachable by phone. "Maybe not having a car would ground him and make him more available," he said.

Mayor Schumacher defended Rowe, mentioning his heavy involvment in many city projects.

Councilman Victor Kyriakis added, "I know many people who have contacted him who have always received a return call. His availability is outstanding."

The council passed motions approving the 15 cents-per-mile reimbursement plan in lieu of providing vehicles or paying flat-car allowances.

There was little debate about Rowe's recommendation to eliminate all travel expenditures except for participation in the Council of Mayors and North County Council of Cities, meetings related to Proposition 13, and travel directly related to police functions, such as transporting prisoners.

The current budget allows $27,000 for travel expenses.

Rather than paying $24,500 per year for memberships in organizations, as Daly City now does, the council approved spending only $3,700 in annual dues to belong to the League of California cities.

Schumacher questioned the wisdom of dropping out of the Association of Bay Area Governments, although he admitted that he found it mind boggling that ABAG could spend $1.8

D.C. Rec User Fee Programs

It could be a long, hot summer in Daly City.

Not knowing how much money the city will receive from state coffers, the City Council voted Monday to direct its staff to map out recreational programs that will be operated on fees paid by users for the next two months.

Meanwhile, 155 temporary and part-time city employees — 124 of whom work in recreation, parks and maintenance — are due to receive lay-off notices in the mail this week.

The only consolation is that the city's playground program will be operated through July 28 at seven city park and center sites.

With the exception of this playground program, City Manager David Rowe has recommended no funding in 1978-79 of the city's recreational operations for which $443,540 was budgeted this fiscal year.

Chuck Vincent, director of parks, recreation and maintenance, urged the council to do surgery on the program rather than amputate them.

He suggested having participants pay user's fees that would cover the costs of supervision and maintenance, leasing some recreational facilities and cutting salaries across the board.

Vincent said Daly City gets a bargain in recreation, with volunteers donating over 50,000 hours a year and program supervisors working 50 to 55 hours a week and never asking for overtime pay.

He added that it is especially important to offer recreational programs during the summer, now that summer school has been cancelled.

"It's much better if kids steal bases than something else," Vincent said. Supporters in the audience applauded for a full minute.

A coordinator of the local Police Athletic League declared that there is no way PAL could operate without the help of full-time recreational supervisors.

He warned, "If you do away with recreational programs, you'd better increase your Police Depart-

NEW CLERK

Margaret Pettigrew has been appointed city clerk by the South San Francisco City Council. Mrs. Pettigrew, who first began working in South San Francisco in 1965, as secretary to the city clerk, has been the city manager's secretary for the past 4½ years. She was chosen out of a field of six applicants, and will serve as clerk until the 1980 municipal elections. She replaces long-time City Clerk Arthur Rodondi, who retired June 2.

SamTrans to Run Summer Rec Buses

Because of cutbacks in recreational activities in the county after passage of Proposition 13, the San Mateo County Transit District has announced a program of scheduled trips for organizations this summer to popular Peninsula leisure-time attractions.

The trips have been scheduled in cooperation with sponsoring youth groups that will be responsible for administration and control.

The new recreation bus schedules have been integrated into the overall SamTrans service plan, a spokesman said, but will serve state, county and municipal parks, Fitzgerald Marine Preserve in Moss Beach, Coyote Point in San Mateo, Pillar Point Harbor at Princeton, Pescadero marsh, Stanford Unversity, the Palo Alto Yacht Harbor, roller and ice rinks, miniature golf centers and other destinations.

The SamTrans buses connect with BART at its stations in Daly City and Hayward, San Francisco Muni and Golden Gate Ferries buses in San Francisco and Santa Clara County Transit in Palo Alto.

An example of such leisure travel this summer is the Carlmont YMCA "Kid Encounters" summer program schedule for some 50 participants, who will go to Huddart Park, Frontier Village, Great America, Candlestick Park and Marine World/Africa USA starting this week.

Sponsoring organizations must agree to accept full responsibility for passengers on the SamTrans buses and at the activity sites, the spokesman said.

Representatives of organized groups may obtain more information about the recreation schedules by calling SamTrans Marketing in San Mateo, 573-2343.

Budget Chops Draw Crowd

Limited Library Schedule Proposed

Budget May be Halved

Still attempting to shrink Daly City's $17 million budget by $5 million, the City Council Monday night directed its staff to whack off more than half the city's library funds.

As the council members directed their staff to prepare a library budget totaling 35 to 50 percent of the current budget of $472,990, they stressed the hope that library funding could be plumped up by September.

Daly City officials are waiting to hear how much of the state's surplus they will receive.

City Librarian Samuel Chandler told the council that nine fulltime library employees could operate Daly City's libraries on a limited schedule with half the usual budget.

Under this plan, the Westlake Library would be open from noon to 8 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The Serramonte Library would be open from noon to 8 p.m. Monday and Wednesday and from 10 to 5 Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

In addition, the John Daly Library would be open from noon to 5 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday and the Bayshore Library would be open during the same hours on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

When Councilman Victor Kyriakis asked whether some of the branches could be open during the early evening instead of during the morning, Chandler replied, "That could be considered."

With 35 percent budgeting, Chandler explained, the libraries would be open during the same hours but they would be operated by a staff of seven employees.

There are 20 fulltime library employees, 14 temporary and part-time workers and five Comprehensive Employment Training Act assistants. The temporary and part-time employees will be laid off July 28 and CETA employees also must be eliminated.

Chandler staunchly defended his workers in his pitch to the City Council. "There isn't a goof-up or a goof-off among our entire staff," he stated.

Although he said volunteers are necessary, Chandler stressed that people off the street do not have the expertise required to operate libraries.

Noting that the message of Proposition 13 was not meant to wipe out city services but to trim them, Chandler said he thought the answer was to trim all city salaries by 10 percent.

He explained that he would be willing to do so, even though he has worked in the city's libraries for 21 years. Mentioning that some persons have suggested that taking pay cuts would turn city employees into second-class citizens, Chandler commented, "I'd rather be a second-class citizen paying my taxes and feeding my family than be an unemployed man standing in a welfare line."

The audience applauded and cheered.

Michael Cooney, chairman of the board of trustees of the libraries, suggested several ways to raise replacement revenues, including raising back fines, renting community rooms and films, increasing the cost of library cards and charging each city dwelling $1 per month.

James Henson of the Peninsula Library System praised the city's low per capita cost for library services ($7.38 per person) and its high circulation rate (over 500,000 items are circulated each year).

A library consultant for the State of California echoed that praise, noting that he seldom feels compelled to defend a library system before a city council and that he rarely hears of one serving 600 to 800 persons each day, as Daly City's does.

A number of citizens defended the libraries.

Virginia Tierney of The Friends of the Library called them "a fundamental part of a democracy."

Bill Wade of the Westlake Homeowners Association said libraries are "the only way we pass information from one generation to the next."

Another resident described libraries as the "people's university."

One woman said she would't want Chandler to take a pay cut unless all the other city officials did, too.

None of the council members was eager to take an ax to the libraries, but finally Councilman Anthony Giammona suggested asking the staff to prepare a budget at 35 to 50 percent of the current funding to be in effect until September.

"By September, we should know more and we could look at what we have," he said.

Giammona told the audience, "All of us up here agree with all of you: we'd loe to keep everything." But, he added, "We have to do something."

The council unanimously approved his suggestion.

80-Acre Mount San Bruno Grass Fire Slows Traffic

Fire swept through some 80 acres of high grass on the south side of San Bruno Mountain near Hillside Boulevard for three hours Monday afternoon before being brought under control by firemen from the California Department of Forestry.

According to firemen, engines had to be diverted to three other fires that were deliberately set on the mountain, as was the original fire, during the battle.

They said grass is about five times higher than normal, and the fire was fanned by 20-mile-per-hour winds.

Smoke was visible throughout the North County, firemen said, and so thick at times that traffic was virtually halted along Hillside Boulevard.

They said although flames burned to within 100 feet of Hillside School, two fire engines were stationed there and the school was not endangered.

Twenty firemen and five engines were dispatched to the fire at 3 p.m., but firemen were unable to immediately reach the flames sweeping up the hill because of the rugged terrain.

At 5 p.m. another fire was set, off Airport Boulevard in South San Francisco, and two South San Francisco Fire Department trucks were dispatched to protect a row of homes. That fire caused a traffic jam on Bayshore Freeway as motorists slowed for a look, firemen reported.

The third and fourth fires were set off Holly Avenue near the main fire at 4 and 7:30 p.m. A false alarm was also received.

Firemen reported the last firemen did not return to their station west of Belmont until 9 p.m.

More than a dozen fires have been set on the mountain during the past several weeks, according to firemen.

D.C. Nude Encounter

Broadmoor Police Officer Harry Kinney saw something at 2:35 a.m. today that police don't see on just any patrol — a nude woman sauntering down the street.

Kenney, of course, investigated and ended up taking her to Mary's Help Hospital for a 72-hour hold for psychiatric observation.

He reported finding the woman in the 7400 block of Mission Street.

ment.' Several members of the audience shouted, "Right!"

Resident Ernie Pezzola asked the council to follow Santa Rosa's lead and put city money earmarked for street widening and stop signs into parks and recreation.

Recreation Commissioner Sharon Smith suggested referring the problem to that commission for careful cutting. She said it would be a mistake to force local organizations to rent city facilities.

Mrs. Smith explained that Daly City is the only city in the area that does not provide residents with free sports equipment.

"Organizations are saving you a lot of money just by sponsoring these teams," she told the council.

A recreation leader pointed out that recreational employees often are the only persons at a sports event who know how to administer first aid.

A young girl said she had bee knocked unconscious last year during a softball game.

"The recreation leader was the only one who knew what to do," she noted.

"I know a lot of people who, just because of a recreation leader, didn't go the wrong way. They straightened themselves out," she added.

Mayor Willia Schumacher thanked the audience for commenting and said the counil would deal with the problem slowly, since Daly City has not yet received its slice of the state surplus pie.

Council members concurred with Councilman Anthony Giammona's suggestion that the staff propose for their consideration a recreational program for July and August based on fees paid by participants and use of volunteers.

DR. ROBERT WATT

Takes superintendent post.

Schools Easy Mark, Administrator Notes

By NANCY STANCILL

Dr. Robert Watt left the Jefferson Union High School District last week to begin working on "another set of rigorous problems" in Rio Vista.

The 45-year-old JUHSD assistant administrator for business and operations will become superintendent of the River Delta Joint Unified School District July 1.

As Jefferson's assistant administrator in charge of finances, he has been embroiled in financial planning for the aftermath of the passage of Proposition 13. Coping with possible loss of revenues will continue at his new post, in which he will oversee a 2,200-student elementary and high school district near Sacramento.

"All school districts will feel the effects of Proposition 13, in spite of what has been said to the contrary," Watt said. "JUHSD is losing $5.5 million and the state probably will not take care of it all."

Watt, who served as an assistant superintendent for six years, said he has tried to watch finances closely.

"The district has not had lots of fat in its budgets," he said. "The board of trustees has been careful in spending its monies. The district has not had extravagant programs."

Watt said he is not surprised that supporters of the Jarvis-Gann initiative criticized California school districts for poor performance in educating students.

"It's easy to pick on education, because we've all been to school," he said. "It's a common experience to discuss."

The former teacher said that despite complaints about schools, test scores are "evidence that kids are learning more and are more accelerated."

"There are still students doing poorly, but we are educating more students and, therefore, more students will have certain learning problems," Watt commented.

Watt has spent his entire career at the Jefferson Union High School District. He started out 24 years ago as a student teacher at Jefferson High in Daly City and was hired the next year as business teacher and coach.

He added counseling duties to his teaching job in 1958 and in 1961 he was chosen dean of boys for Terra Nova High. In that position, he was charged with student discipline.

Moving up the ladder to administration, he has missed the daily contact with students, Watt said.

"I've always been people-oriented," the graying, soft-spoken administrator said. "I hope I have affected students' lives in a positive way."

As he prepares to move to Rio Vista, Watt said he concludes his many years with the district with "mixed feelings."

"I've got a great number of friends and a lot of roots here," he said.

million per year on Bay Area planning.

Rowe said the council might opt to rejoin ABAG if it found that the city was losing out on federal grants obtained through the body.

Pavellas criticized the decision to remain in the League of California Cities rather than ABAG, saying, "I have read the league is very much a social organization."

Kyriakis disagreed, pointing out that the league is the only lobbying agency for cities in Sacramento and that it keeps cities informed about bills that affect them.

The council also approved Rowe's suggestion to replace police vehicles every three years, beginning July 1.

In response to the mayor's questioning, Rowe said Daly City already has committed some funds for purchasing several new police vehicles. Ordered earlier this year, they have not arrived, but it is impossible to cancel the order.

Deaths

Frank LaPierre

The Rosary was recited Sunday at the W. C. Laswell funeral chapel in Daly City for Frank Daniel LaPierre, 46, Post reporter who died Thursday after a sudden illness at his home in San Ramon.

LaPierre was a native of Springfield, Mass. He served in the U.S. Air Force as a master sergeant and was decorated for heroism during the Korean War. He was a member of the San Francisco Press Club and the American Newspaper Guild.

He worked as a newsman for the Asahi Evening News in Tokyo, the Guam Daily News, the East Asia Publishing Co., and the Las Vegas Review-Journal before coming to The Post 11 years ago.

Covering a police beat for the San Bruno Herald and The Post, LaPierre led a reporting team which provided coverage of a tense hostage situation in South San Francisco in 1977, which won a first place award in the California Newspaper Publishers Association's annual Better Newspaper Contest.

LaPierre is survived by his wife Terry of San Ramon.

Funeral services were at the Lasswell chapel Monday, with a Mass of Christian Burial at Our Lady of Mercy Catholic Church and interment at Woodlawn cemetery in Colma.

JAMES QUIBELL

Memorial services for James Quibell, who died June 13 at St. Luke's Hospital in San Francisco, were last Friday at Broadmoor Presbyterian Church in Daly City.

Quibell, 66, 158 Palisades Drive, Daly City, had been ill for two months. A retired carpenter and 22-year resident of Daly City, Quibell was a member of George Washington Masonic Temple in San Francisco and Order of Eastern Star Del Mar Chapter in Pacifica.

Survivors include his wife Dorothy; three sons, James, Paul and Peter; and two sisters and two brothers.

SamTrans to Run Holiday Schedules

San Mateo County Transit District buses will run on normal holiday schedules over the July 4 holiday.

Route 3B, from Millbrae to San Francisco International Airport to the Daly City BART station, will operate at half-hour intervals with the first trip from Burlingame Plaza at 8 a.m. and the last from the Daly City BART station to the airport, at 6:15 p.m.

Local routes to operate include 20C, 20J and 21A in Daly City and 50C and 50V in East Palo Alto and East Menlo Park.

Coastside service will be on routes 7F and 7B from Palo Alto and on Route 5M from Hillsdale Shopping Center, all into downtown San Francisco.

Coastside routes 1A/1L will operate from Half Moon Bay and Pacifica direct to downtown San Francisco.

New Mental Health Chief

Dr. Clarice Haylett, chief psychiatrist of the Child Development Services of San Mateo County, has been named acting program chief for the Mental Health Division.

She replaces Dr. Mike Rankin who has just announced his resignation, effective July 15. He plans to return to his home state of Arkansas where he will serve as commissioner of mental health in Little Rock.

In announcing his resignation, Rankin spoke highly of the "progressive government of Arkansas in the "best new South sense" and it has an excellent mental health system.

He expressed his regret at leaving his post here which he has held for nine years, adding his gratitude..."for the warmth and support — and constructive criticism I have received."

Dr. Clarice Haylett

Rankin has been under fire periodically by some members of the Mental Health Advisory Board of San Mateo County.

Dr. Haylett did not seek the appointment, which was offered by Dr. Howard Gurevitz, acting director of the health and welfare department, and by Rankin, whom she succeeds on an acting basis.

She received her bachelor's and medical degree from Stanford University and interned at San Francisco General Hospital. She took her psychiatric residency in adult and child psychiatry at the Mayo Clinic for two years, followed by another two years at Mt. Zion Hospital's psychiatric division in San Francisco.

Dr. Haylett joined the Mental Health Division in 1958, took a leave of absence in 1960 when she was married and has been with the county steadily since 1961.

Sunday BART Connection

The San Mateo County Transit District has announced that its Route 3B will provide connections at Daly City July 9 when BART begins its Sunday service.

Route 3B now operates on half-hour frequencies between the BART station, South San Francisco, San Francisco International Airport and Burlingame Plaza in Millbrae seven days a week, connecting with its Mainline service to Palo Alto in Millbrae.

The run starts at 9:06 a.m. from the BART station weekends and holidays, with the run to the airport at 6:15 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Later this summer SamTrans plans to add Sunday service on local North County routes to complement the new BART service.

Summer Camp Open

The summer day camp sponsored by the Daly City Grace Presbyterian Church has a few more openings for children who wish to register, according to Anne Amburgey, director.

The camp will run for six weeks, beginning July 3, at a cost of $25. Sessions are Mondays through Fridays.

Children entering grades one through eight in September also may register for less than the full term at a weekly fee of $5.

Official registration day is June 24 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the social hall of Grace Presbyterian Church, Crocker and Winchester streets, Daly City

Roundabout

(This is the start of a new column for the summer by Brian Blum, author of the weekly Mustang column during the school year, but who now is a new graduate of Capuchino High School. Subjects will be of general interest to North County young people. Comments and replies to his observations may be addressed to him at this newspaper.)

By BRIAN BLUM

San Francisco long has been famous for cable cars, sourdough bread and homosexuals. What is less known is the degree to which homosexuality is found at the high school level. But it's there, and there's a whole lot more of it than you might think.

Conservative estimates peg 10 percent of San Francisco's population as homosexual. That figure probably is lower at the high school level, but still, an average-size school of 1,500 students could have 75 to 100 homosexual students at just a five or six percent figure.

THOSE are just numbers, though. Is 75 students a believable estimate in reality? The answer is a quiet yes, quiet because high school homosexuals are largely still in the closet because of fear and peer pressure.

High school is already a dangerous time to be different. Most teenagers try their hardest to act and talk and dress just like everybody else, lest they face their classmates' ridicule and ostracization. And the most common put-down is labeling someone a homosexual.

If you were to wear a backpack to school, you're "gay;" come to class in shorts, you're "gay." And heaven help the poor soul with a naturally-soft voice. The dangerous part is that the hatred is not confined just to words. A San Bruno high schooler recently was beaten up one evening by the campus athletes because they thought he "talked funny."

SO TO come out and openly declare your homosexuality is unthinkable. But as soon as high school is over, the stories come back about so-and-so who now is frequenting Polk Street bars.

High school homosexuality is not openly visible for another reason: A lot of it is more in theory than in practice. In other words, a lot of students have decided that they're homosexual, but have not actually had any homosexual experiences. These same students often will date members of the opposite sex as a cover-up.

There also are those who classify themselves as bisexual, and not strictly homosexual. Since adolescence is a time of great experimentation, bisexuality allows the best of both worlds. And it keeps the doors open in case you decide to go straight. It adds a whole new meaning to the word "fickle."

BECAUSE a lot of it is experimentation, homosexuality, at least in high school, is often just a phase, which explains how people suddenly can "turn" homosexual,then be straight again in later years.

Although it's not widely realized, there are just as many girl homosexuals as males. Moreover, it's often easier for a girl to be homosexual than not. A girl sleeping over at a girlfriend's house can stay in the same room and often the same bed without a parent batting an eye. And that can be more convenient than trying to find a private spot with a boyfriend.

It's also easier to be homosexual in San Francisco than other places, simply because there are so many homosexuals around. It's in the suburbs and rural areas that eyebrows are raised, that people say "No there couldn't be any at our school!"

AND YET, thinking about the statistics, you can walk down the hallway of your school and find yourself wondering if the star basketball player, or the quiet girl that nobody knows could be one of the school's statistical 75 homosexuals. It's also strange, meeting a girl or a guy that you might like to date, having to question whether the person could be homosexual.

Is teenage homosexuality something new? Probably not. Homosexuality has been around for 5,000 years, since the days of Plato, Socrates, and the lesbian poet, Sappho. What is new is the exposure homosexual lifestyles have gotten in the media — television, newspapers, books.

As a result of this new awareness, the intelligent high schooler (as compared to the unthinking kid who labels anyone that's different "gay") generally has mixed feelings about the whole thing.

ON THE one hand, he sees homosexuality as an aberration, and it makes him uncomfortable. On the other hand, he wants to be more liberal and tolerant and look at both sides.

He is aware, though, that the voices of bigotry from people like Anita Bryant and John Briggs are creating a new anti-homosexual attitude in this country. Still, he realizes that he lives in an area where a high percentage of the people are homosexual, and that the trend is not diminishing.

For a teenager emerging sexually, it's a very confusing time to live through, indeed.

DC Senior Citizens' Busy Week

A busy week ahead for the members of the Daly City Senior Citizens:

Mrs. Louise Buttle, publicity chairperson, reports that the Senior Forum picnic to be held at the San Mateo County Fairgrounds will attract more than 100 localites from that group.

This year's picnic will feature an Hawaiian motif with guests encouraged to wear Hawaiian print shirts and muu-muus.

Some 50 senior citizens' clubs in San Mateo County participate in the forum activities.

Later this week several of the club members will leave on a cruise to Alaska.

THE FRIENDS of the Daly City Library once again combined the annual meeting with a member participation art and craft exhibit.

Participating in the exhibit were Mrs. Margaret Kincaid, Rush Manbert, Mrs. Rita Barichievich and Mrs. Virginia Tierney, all of whom displayed oil paintings; the Reverend Grady Hills, string art picture; Mrs. Olga Canada, plant dish gardens; Ellyn Canada, embroidered picture and a checkered gingham book cover with a pocket for eye glasses; Mrs. Joan Marshall, embroidered pillow cases; and Mrs. Emma Arieta, crocheted tablecloth, a broomstick shawl and a "huck" embroidered towel.

Mr. and Mrs. Louise Filarski, representing the Daly City Garden Club, arranged a table decoration featuring succulents and orchid cactus blooms. Mrs. Ann Ingersoll chairs the Garden Club's committee.

THE DALY CITY Dolphins, still unsure of the future of the swimming team, are planning ahead optimistically.

Regular swim practice began on Monday and the parents have scheduled a meeting for July 6, even though the club may find itself without a pool to practice in on July 1! One way or the other, parties will be meeting at the home of team coach Chip Zimmerman at 8:30 p.m.

Everyone in the Dolphin organization is proud of the members who placed in the recent Swim Carnival. Among those who received plaudits were Rich Segol, Bill and Brett Beedle, Matthew Foge, and the girls and boys relay teams.

The younger team members are slated to take part in a meet at Woodside High School this week. Older team members will swim in Palo Alto the same two days.

MEMBERS of the younger set celebrating July birthdays include Daly City residents Gigi Bipes, Ernst and Lisa Calais, Michiko Dawkins, Glen Simonsen, Maureen Careu and James Burgess.

SAN BRUNO City Park has been selected as the site for the annual Balboa High School Alumni Association picnic.

Mrs. Emily Powell Sumrall, president of the association, has announced that the event will be held the first weekend in August and will feature all the games and sports competitions which have become popular with the grads during the past picnic-reunions.

For details, contact Frank Gallo, Mrs. Sumrall or alumni secretary Vickie Hackett.

The tum, tum, tum throb of jungle drums in the night . . . Blowguns, great snakes! Unspeakable acts . . . Dear Sir: This is an outrage! Sincerely, Rudyard . . . and the young girls are best . . .

By TERRY DAVENPORT

From the pristine exterior of the home at 210 Castenada Drive in Millbrae, you never would suspect that inside are poison darts, blowguns and the 15-foot-long skin of one of the most poisonous snakes on earth: a bushmaster.

These are just a few of the mementoes Joseph Rizzardo collected during 14 years in the jungles of New Guinea and South America.

Dysentery, malaria, army ants, angry mobs, cannibals, floods and crocodiles didn't prevent Rizzardo from telling his story. Although his adventures date back several decades, he only recently set them down in print. The result is a book called "As I Remember."

It's a bona fide "limited edition," for only 12 copies have been made. Rizzardo spent two years writing and retyping the 52-page book.

"I only type with two fingers," he notes.

He never intended it to be a best seller. The charming 72-year-old man explained that he wrote the book to satisfy friends who kept pleading, "Why don't you write that down?"

He said he'd be happy to provide additional copies to those interested for the price of photocopying them.

"As I Remember" is written with the same animation Rizzardo reveals when he talks about the foreign lands where he spent much of his youth.

The lure was gold.

Rizzardo was hired by a company that wanted to develop a new gold field in New Guinea.

He knew that cannibals, disease and poisonous snakes awaited him, but he feared nothing.

When he swooped into New Guinea in 1934 aboard a tri-motor Ford airplane, natives who had never seen a plane began throwing spears. Others hid their heads in the sand.

While he was dredging gold from the streams, Rizzardo heard tales of men from his own company who had been eaten by cannibals.

He writes, "By nature, the natives are not really hostile. Cannibalism is for them a custom that has existed for a long, long time, and they see nothing wrong with it.

"Cannibals never eat a member of their own tribe. They eat others because they are hungry. Sayre, a native who worked for me, said that human meat is much sweeter than animal meat, and young girl is their delicacy."

Malaria finally drove Rizzardo from New Guinea. He nearly died of it. He took so much quinine trying to get rid of the disease, he also ended up with quinine poisoning.

In the hospital, he overheard one doctor tell another, "Poor fellow. He only has two weeks to live." After he had prepared himself to die, Rizzardo was miraculously cured. His doctor had heard about a new medication called Atabrine.

Then, off gold mining in South America, Rizzardo had several more brushes with death.

He nearly drowned three times while traveling down rivers in a launch.

Once, he remembers, thoughts of his mother flashed through his mind before he submerged. Eight days later, he came out of a coma and found himself in a hospital. He never learned how he had been rescued.

Rizzardo's companions were not so fortunate. A number died of malaria, snake bite and other dangers of the jungle.

The company made it a rule to bury the dead immediately. Rizzardo found out why when he told the tired natives one evening that they could postpone burying one body until dawn.

The next morning, Rizzardo saw, to his horror, that the body has been picked clean by army ants.

Perhaps Rizzardo's closest call with death was when his company incurred the wrath of some natives who resented seeing dredging cables anchored in their cemetery. The natives confronted Rizzardo and his crew, carrying pitchforks, guns and machetes.

Somehow, all the company employees except Rizzardo managed to escape. He was carried away by the angry natives, who were yelling, in their own language, what amounted to: "Lynch him!"

Unspeakable things occurred to him before he finally was released, due to his company's efforts.

Rizzardo's jungle adventures came to an abrupt halt when he married Agnes Lintini in 1947. He had met her several years earlier while passing through San Mateo with a friend on one of his infrequent vacations.

The friend wanted to look up an old buddy who ran the Family Market in San Mateo. Agnes happened to be the buddy's sister. Rizzardo had to leave for South America two days later, but he and Agnes became acquainted through letters.

At first, Agnes had planned to return to South America with him.

"Then she saw my pictures and she changed her mind," Rizzardo laughed. They decided to run a little grocery and liquor store in San Francisco.

Living in the U.S. still proved dangerous in its own way. During the five years the Rizzardos operated their store, they were held up nine times.

That was too much for Rizzardo. He went to work at a metal refinery in South San Francisco. One day while working there, he had just turned away from a large vat of chemicals when the mixture erupted in a huge explosion that damaged much of the factory.

Rizzardo was unscathed.

Life has been much quieter for him since he retired in 1970. He listens to classical music and digs in his garden.

But the past keeps catching up with him. Not long ago, he visited Kaiser Hospital for a checkup and the doctor smiled and said, "Well, look who's here!"

Rizzardo couldn't remember having met the man before. The doctor turned out to be one who had worked in a hospital in Colombia 25 years before. The fearless Rizzardo had been summoned to the hospital to catch a large snake that was frightening the patients. Before he departed, Rizzardo had playfully chased the doctor with the snake in his hand.

GOLD FEVER

Natives of New Guinea work a gold mining dredge while young Joseph Rizzardo supervises. Rizzardo said the largest gold nugget in the world was found on this spot. A replica of it can be seen in a museum in the San Francisco Ferry Building.

TOOLS OF THE TRADE

Rizzardo shows off mementoes in his home 'museum'. Below, the stone axe he is placing back on the wall is very, very old and is, he believes, the first to be brought to the U.S. He found it in New Guinea.

Schools' Importance

With the closing of the 1977-78 school year we are reminded of lines that were written by Frank Treat Southwick.

"Ye who love the Republic, remember the claim
Ye owe to her fortunes. Ye owe to her name,
To her years of prosperity past in store —
Two hundred behind you, a thousand before!

The blue arch above us is Liberty's dome,
The green fields beneath us, Equality's home;
But the schoolroom today is humanity's friend —
Let the people the flag and the schoolroom defend!

It is the schoolhouse that stands by the flag;
Let the nation stand by the school!
'Tis the schoolbell that rings for our Liberty old,
'Tis the schoolboy whose ballot shall rule."

It was disturbing to see a large number of people at a pre-primary debate in South San Francisco stand and with clapping and cheering state their willingness to cut the funds allocated for education. It was frightening to hear them boo as Assemblyman McCarthy recited the dire results that could come to the schools, and therefore the state, through tax curtailment.

PERHAPS this indicates that the time has come to review the importance of the schools of California, in spite of their faults. To do this let us turn to the sobering words of Wilson Riles, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Writing for the 1976 California Public School Directory, Riles reminded us that:

"Our public schools are the bond which brings us together as a nation and holds us together as a democracy. Without an educated electorate sharing a common set of values, this country could not long survive as a democratic nation. Therefore, it is in our deepest national interest to preserve and promote our public schools; they are the very foundation of our way of life."

As he continues, Riles' words become a challenge to the people of every school district. "However, in this democracy of ours, the schools can never be more than a reflection of the spirit, the climate, and the participation of our communities. No school is an island, cut off from the mainland of society, existing in isolation from the society it serves."

RILES, as a wise observer of California's schools, knows that the schools are subject to great criticism. He knows that much of the criticism has been earned and that most of it is constructive criticism. "However," he writes, "we must remember that the criticism of the schools is but an echo of the criticism of America."

"If we are to combat the criticism and restore faith in our democracy and our schools, it is up to each of us to reject the comfort of finding some scapegoat to blame for our problems. We cannot expect to provide the next generation with a better world if we fail to resolve the problems of today."

With forthrightness that is refreshing, Riles writes to the faculties of the schools and the voters as well. ". . . We must not bury the things that are wrong. No amount of rhetorical mudslinging is going to cover the need to resolve problems. . . . Our hope of a better life for our children lies in our willingness to identify that which is wrong and to set about making it right. There is little consolation in cursing the darkness when we hold both the candle and the match."

I CRINGE every time I see a teacher clad in dirty dungarees, with shaggy hair and a straggly beard. Yet I would not — for the world — have us return to the schools that I knew when I taught 30 years ago. Each male teacher — properly dressed in a jacket and tie, and each female teacher in her sedate skirt — taught six periods a day, 50 kids to a class, with no breaks at all.

Each took a turn watching the hot lunch line and doing "hall duty." Each coached an athletic team or a school play or some other endeavor. After hours, each worked at another job because the school did not pay teachers a livable wage — and each teacher had to appear before the school board before his contract was renewed. The ideal is a compromise between the conditions of the past and the looseness of the present.

This Riles recognizes as he writes, "I am confident that as we resolve the problems which lessen the effectiveness of our schools, we will restore public confidence in education as the foundation for a better life. I am equally confident that as we rekindle our hopes and dreams and aspirations, we can restore society's faith in itself and in its hopes for the future."

John Horgan

Depressions

The vague rumblings of discontent are starting to be heard down at the supermarket again. There is muffled grousing about another beef boycott. The reason: beef prices are starting to skyrocket once more, just as they did several years ago.

All food prices are rising steadily. It is only liquor prices which are dropping. That, of course, can be a blessing or a curse, depending on the degree of your boozing habits.

All of this is making my shopping ventures more exciting than a visit to Zaire.

Last weekend, I was told to bring home some bacon. I gingerly entered the supermarket and, as soon as I got inside those air-conditioned depths, I encountered a woman arguing with a clerk who was desparately trying to slap on new and higher price tags on cartons of breakfast cereal.

I avoided the dispute and approached the lettuce. That was a mistake too. I could have made a down payment on a view lot in the Sierras for what was being charged for heads of lettuce. Depressed, I naturally shuffled over to the vodka and smiled a lot.

But not Jo Ann York. She claims she can feed her family of four on the paltry sum of $20 a week. You heard that correctly: $20 a week. Mrs. York's economic approach to the taste buds of America is not going to score too many points around our house. My seven-year-old daughter goes through $20 a week in yoghurt bars alone. Our cats consume nearly that amount of liver-and-grits-surprise.

Mrs. York could be the worst thing to happen to domestic bliss since Fenthouse. She has written a book about her dining philosophy and I am afraid to recommend it because it might somehow catch on. Her idea of a snappy menu has all the appeal of a terminal case of dishpan hands.

There are no frills in the York diet. She specializes in creating culinary boredom — but she does it cheaply. "Some people say I'm a bland cook," she says, "but I cook things the way my children like them — and my children don't like spices."

Her two kids may not have much choice in the matter. It isn't difficult to conjure up an image of the children repairing to their Maryland cellar to munch secretly on such forbidden items as oregano and paprika.

Mrs. York doesn't waste a thing. She buys much of her food in bulk. She doesn't fool around. She saves supermarket coupons and looks for sales.

She calculates how much gasoline she will use to get from store to store. She brings only $20 with her on her shopping junkets so that she won't exceed her weekly allotment. It's a form of discipline that seems to work.

TALENT SHOW

Marian Council Awards

Grand Knight Enrique Lamout has announced that Marian Council 3773, Knights of Columbus, representing North San Mateo County, was the recipient of several awards at the recently concluded 76th annual California State Council Convention at Santa Maria.

The Daly City-based council was awarded trophies for excellence in Division III in the following categories:

Council activities, first place; youth activities, first place; church activities, second place; community activities, second place.

Spearheading the council's program of activities for the 1977-1978 term was Rich Rusting, program director.

In addition to the awards in their division, Marian Council was presented with three awards as "Best in the State." The awards and their directors were:

Council bulletin, Tomm Curr, editor; public relations, Tom Curr, publicity director; yearbook, George Hartig, committee chairman.

Supervisors Save Parks, Library

By RICK SULLIVAN

Tapping every possible financial resource in eleventh hour deliberations, the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors voted unanimously Friday to keep all major county parks and most library branches open in the new fiscal year.

Supervisors, responding to citizen demands at two post-Jarvis budget hearings that the services be retained, agreed to fund 10 county parks at least through the summer months and to close only three of the 14 library branches.

The actions came on the final day of a series of emergency budget study sessions that have resulted in a reduction of county programs and services totalling approximately $36 million.

That amount falls about $3.7 million short of the total amount of property taxes the county will lose next year fiscal year, under revenue restrictions imposed by Proposition 13.

But the supervisors postponed until September consideration of the closure of Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center costing $1.8 million per year and delayed action on a recommendation to cut $1 million in general relief.

The total county budget reduction cutbacks, accomplished in an extraordinary nine-day whirlwind session, include the elimination of 1,050 employee positions.

Actual county workers to be laid off, however will be about 850. The remainder of the positions are already vacant.

And of the total number of employees who received layoff notices with their paychecks on Friday, some 200 could be rehired as early as July 1.

The Board of Supervisors has scheduled another special budget study meeting Thursday to discuss how an expected $10 million in state replacement revenue will be used to bolster the budgets of various departments, which suffered severe cutbacks in the past few days.

The supervisors have given the highest priority to law enforcement, the courts, and public health and welfare.

The board agreed Friday to allocate the parks and recreation division $60,750 more than had been recommended as part of the division's Jarvis budget examined first by the board last week.

The additional appropriation will allow the department to keep 18 more employees than had been recommended and to keep 10 major county parks open for another three months.

The only parks to be closed now are Pescadero Park, the Sanchez Adobe historical site and the trails system.

The total reduction in the parks and recreation division budget, approved by the board, is $1.3 million. This includes the elimination of 37 employee positions.

To retain operation of 11 of the 14 county libraries, the supervisors authorized a reduction in the opening hours of nine branches and agreed to consider using library capital improvement funds to pay for the continuation of the Brisbane and Portola Valley branches.

There will, however, be reductions in library services and the elimination of 97 employee positions.

According to County Librarian James Buckley, there will be no inter-library loan of materials; no requests for library materials will be taken; no telephone reference service will be provided; and notices to patrons of overdue materials will be curtailed.

The supervisors also Friday approved a $9.1 million budget for the operation of Chope Community Hospital. They voted to reduce the property tax support of that facility by slightly more than a half a million dollars.

The reduction, however, will not affect the services now offered at the hospital.

In completing the post-Jarvis hearings, the board readied the county to enter the new fiscal year beginning July 1 with a budget that includes only revenue it knows it can legally collect under the Jarvis provisions.

According to one county official, San Mateo and one other county are the only counties of the 58 in the state to prepare a budget two weeks before the end of the current fiscal year that did not include an estimate of state replacement revenue.

The board had reasoned that based on past efforts in Sacramento to enact property tax relief legislation, this county could not count on any specific amount of state reimbursement money to make up for the lost funds as mandated by Proposition 13.

The supervisors, however, pointed out repeatedly that the county will indeed get some state funds, and when it does the money will be added to the budget and some fired employees will be rehired.

Board Chairman Edward Bacciocco and county manager David Nichols concurred that the budget hearings had run smoothly and complimented the public in its patience and understanding "in this very difficult time."

Supervisor William Royer commented, "There has never been a more difficult job that I have had as an elected official than sending out these (employee) termination notices."

Then Supervisor Fred Lyon interjected:

"I was complimenting myself on the way home last night on the great job we have done over these past few days. Then I got to thinking what we really have done is rip the very heart out of local government.

"It will continue to function, not in a very humanitarian way."

Earlier this week, the board voted to cut 80 sworn deputies from the sheriff's department.

Today it was learned that a higher than average number of sheriff's deputies have been calling in sick for the swing watch Friday, overnight and this morning.

According to deputies, sometimes no one calls in sick for a period of a week, although the average number of sick calls received is two to three.

It was reported that eight sheriff's deputies called in sick before the 4 p.m. to midnight watch Friday, while a half-dozen called in sick this morning.

Most of those who called in, one deputy reported, are those who are due to be laid off July 1 because of Jarvis-Gann Initiative cutbacks.

Deputies on duty emphasized, however, there is no organized sick-in and the Organization of Deputy Sheriffs has not suggested anyone call in sick.

Man Dies In Bruno Crash

A 37-year-old South San Francisco man died Friday night in the intensive care unit of Mary's Help Hospital of head injuries suffered some 10 hours earlier when his auto struck a parked car on Oakmont Drive in San Bruno, San Bruno police report.

The accident victim, Dharmendra Kumar Millan, was trapped in his car and had to be extricated by San Bruno firemen using a "Jaws of Life" rescue tool, according to police. The accident occurred at 1:08 p.m., police said.

A passenger in the car was also admitted to Mary's Help Hospital with multiple facial lacerations.

Also Friday night, four Pacifica teenagers were arrested after police stopped their stolen car following a wild chase down Bayshore Freeway, and four boys, 15 and 16, were arrested by South San Francisco police for suspicion of dealing in marijuana.

The four Pacifica youths, all 16 and 17 years old, were captured after a high-speed chase down the Bayshore Freeway from San Carlos to Burlingame involving patrol cars from the San Carlos and Belmont police departments, the California Highway Patrol and the sheriff's office, San Carlos police reported today.

According to San Carlos Officer William Young, the four, in a Cadillac stolen from Pacifica, sped away from a service station on El Camino Real and Brittan Avenue about 10:25 p.m. without paying for the gas.

Young said he spotted the vehicle a few minutes later on El Camino Real and Arroyo Avenue. He said he got near enough to read the license plate and determined the vehicle was stolen, but the boys took off, careening down San Carlos residential streets at speeds between 80 and 90 miles per hour.

Young said the driver of the vehicle headed north on El Camino Real into Belmont and then turned east on Ralston Avenue to the freeway.

By this time, Young reported, a half dozen other patrol cars joined the chase. He said the car was finally hemmed in north of Peninsula Avenue in Burlingame and all four boys were taken to the Hillcrest Juvenile Hall for car theft and petty theft.

The arrest of the four South San Francisco boys involved the sale and use of marijuana near South San Francisco High School, Police Capt. James Swinford reported.

Swinford said a police decoy made eight separate buys from the boys, all of which were for an ounce or less.

Swinford reported that there is no evidence that the use of heavy drugs on the campus of South San Francisco High School is "any different than other similar campuses."

Police Chief James Datzman, who reported that Broadmoor police were also involved in the investigation, said additional arrests are expected.

Datzman reported one of the arrest was "the result of civilian interest," and added that anyone knowing of any drug dealing should call the police special "Tip line," 952-2244. He promised their information would be kept confidential.

The boys were all turned over to the custody of their parents.

Fire Strikes Same Spot

California Department of Forestry firemen were called to the same location on San Bruno Mountain Thursday night to put out a fire where they had extinguished one on Wednesday night.

The latest fire, off Hillside Boulevard in South San Francisco, covered six acres, compared to 16 the previous night.

Firemen let the fire burn itself out as it swept into the area blackened by the Wednesday fire.

Eight fires have been reported on San Bruno Mountain this year.

Pacifica Chamber to Try and Go It Alone

President Ken Todd announced at a chamber luncheon Thursday that the organization is attempting to become self-supporting.

He noted that the passage of Proposition 13 clinched that decision.

In the past, the chamber has relied on a $16,000 annual contribution from the city.

Chamber members with ideas for raising funds are invited to attend a "think session" on June 21 at 7:30 p.m. in the Pacifica Chamber Office, 80 Eureka Square.

Major Cutbacks in Sheriff's Office

By RICK SULLIVAN

A crowd of angry, catcalling advocates of status quo law enforcement jammed the Hall of Justice Thursday to witness a financially strapped San Mateo County Board of Supervisors slice the sheriff's department budget by 22 percent.

Supervisors, visibly moved by impassioned pleas of mostly East Palo Alto and Coastside residents to leave sheriff services intact, voted unanimously, nevertheless, to accept the budget reductions.

The cutbacks, only tentative and likely to be changed should state replacement revenue becomes available, include the closure of sheriff's office substations (East Palo Alto, San Francisco Airport and the Coastside) and the layoff of 80 deputies and 52 non-sworn personnel.

Supervisors reiterated the theme of the post-Jarvis budget study sessions now only a day away from completion: The county is bound to live with the revenue restrictions imposed by the voter-authorized initiative.

"Why don't you cut from the top? We voted for Jarvis-Gann to eliminate the fat and high-level bureaucracy, not police and fire services," demanded an angry woman.

"If we eliminate every management person from the top to the middle we would save $6 million," replied a weary Supervisor Fred Lyon. "We are bound by Jarvis to cut $39.7 million in property taxes. If more money is given to the sheriff, do we take from the sick, the blind and the disabled?

"We have cut the planning department by 82 percent; we've cut parks and recreation by 80 percent; we've cut libraries by 57 percent; we've cut public health by 53 percent; and we've moved to close the Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center.

"Please tell us what to take from and we will do it," Lyon told the crowd.

In prefacing a detailed account of the ramifications of the budget reductions, Sheriff John McDonald told the supervisors:

"I wish I could say I have found some fat or luxuries that we could do without, or equipment, or cost items that do not affect the safety of the citizens of this county. I cannot say this.

"The excellence of law enforcement in this office that has been gained in the past years, I am sure you realize, is lost if this becomes a final document."

Results of a 22 percent cutback in the sheriff's office, according to McDonald:

- Substations will be closed and patrol supervision will be reduced and centralized out of Redwood City. Patrol cars, however, will be assigned regularly to East Palo Alto and the Coastside and could be dispatched from their positions.
- Except for the Coastside and the Woodside-Portola Valley beat, all-night patrol cars will be staffed with only one deputy, "increasing the risk to sheriff's deputies and the public."
- All undercover anti-burglary, narcotics and organized crime investigations will cease.
- Follow-up investigations will be performed only on felonies and high misdemeanors with substantial leads.
- The crime lab will cease providing services to cities and will concentrate on serious crimes only.
- All crime prevention services will be canceled.
- The helicopter patrol will be terminated.
- The sheriff reserve program will be curtailed.
- Chope Community Hospital security will be cut back to one deputy on duty.
- Fewer deputies will staff the main jail, "increasing the potential for prisoner-to-prisoner assaults."
- The North County pre-arraignment and detention center will not receive county funding.

Evelyn Hicks of the Coastside community of Miramar warned the supervisors, "If you make these budget cuts there's going to be chaos. How can we protect ourselves without the sheriff?"

"Do you want all the citizens carrying firearms?" asked Fern Bianchi.

Mrs. Bianchi, a Belmont resident, added in peppery tones: "Jarvis-Gann didn't intend for you to cut police and fire services, but the fat-cat salaries of the top levels of government. You've got to understand that there are alternatives (to cutting the sheriff's office) and if you don't consider them, we (the people) can do one of three things: we can recall you, vote you out of office or refuse to pay our taxes at all."

Board Chairman Edward Bacciocco, who returned from a trip to Sacramento on Tuesday, said the state has every intention of giving counties some replacement revenue. San Mateo County could receive between $8 million and $16 million.

The highest priority for these funds, said the chairman, who was echoed by Supervisor John Ward, will be law enforcement, the courts, and public health and welfare.

Les Kelting, who led voters of this county in the successful campaign to enact Prop. 13, urged the supervisors and all those in the audience concerned about the massive budget reductions to demand that Sacramento act swiftly in allocation of funds.

Allen Garcia, a representative of the California Peace Officers Association, asked the board to postpone any cuts in the sheriff's office until it is known exactly how much money the state will give San Mateo County.

But the supervisors reviewed a position they have taken since the budget hearing began the day after Jarvis-Gann was enacted: Based on the past experience of Sacramento in passing property tax legislation, the county cannot rely on the state for any specific amount of money, and, furthermore, if layoffs are postponed, the county will face heavy unemployment insurance costs it cannot afford.

Late Thursday evening the board took additional action on the future of federal revenue-sharing disbursement and on the fate of the Economic Opportunity Commission (EOC) and the Human Relations Commission (HRC).

After a three-hour public hearing that brought scores of poor people before the supervisors pleading for money, the board voted unanimously to cut the total revenue-sharing allocation next fiscal year to such community-based services as child care and youth and senior activities to $160,000.

This year's allocation to fund the activities is $603,000.

The new amount, the board decided, would be spread over two quarters beginning July 1, with the hope that many of the programs could be funded later with federal monies.

The supervisors also appropriated $50,000 next year to aid the EOC in its transition to an independent agency and delayed action on a recommendation to eliminate entirely the HRC.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

Many magnificent pasta dishes would be quite ordinary if it weren't for the dairy foods like butter, cheese, milk and cream that turn them into delectable entrees. This one made with green noodles is tossed with butter and parmesan cheese plus some minced clams to make it more hearty. Accompany this with a mixed green salad and ice cold milk. A couple of glasses of wholesome milk are recommended by nutritionists for your daily dining pleasure and good nutrition.

CHEESE AND CLAM FETTUCINE

6 ounces green noodles (about 4 cups)
¼ pound bacon
½ cup butter
2 cloves garlic
1 can minced clans
1 cup grated paresan chieese

Cook noodles according to directions on package. Meanwhile cook the fourth pound of bacon until crisp. Drain and crumble. Melt the half-cup butter and add the two pressed garlic cloves and drained clams. Toss hot drained noodles with butter mixture and the one cup grated cheese. Serve on warm platter top with crumbled bacon. Garnish it with ripe olives if desired.

Makes 4 or more servings.

SUPER QUICK PIE

1 large carton non-dairy whipped topping

1 small carton fruited yogurt (if pineapple, add one small can crushed pineapple that has been drained for one hour or until all the juice has drained away.)

Mix the non-dairy whipped topping and yogurt together. Save a small amount of the non-dairy whipped topping for topping the pie.

Pour the filling into a baked pastry shell or graham cracker shell and top with reserved whipped topping. Garnish with grated chocolate.

CETA Aides Stay

By JANET PARKER

While many public employees who thought their jobs were "permanent" are being laid off in the wake of Proposition 13, a temporary group of subsidized workers will be paid beginning July 5 to train and look for jobs.

The Comprehensive Employment Training Act workers who will be terminated on June 30 have been invited to participate in an eight-week "Job Finders Corporation," according to CETA job developer Lois Carr.

All of those CETA employees are losing their jobs because they held the same job classification as "permanent" public sector employees who are receiving termination notices.

It's expected that about half of those 1,000 doomed CETA employees will elect to attend the training session.

Most of those who participate in the "Job Finders Corporation" will receive $650 a month. Others, however, with special skills to serve as staff members of the workshop will receive about $820, Ms. Carr said.

"The private sector has quite a few jobs that are available," she said. "We're trying to train them to sharpen their skills to compete for those jobs."

If those CETA workers were completely cut off from the federal program on June 30, the money that had been appropriated for them through the end of September would be subtracted from next year's federal allotment to the county, Ms. Carr related.

However, a Belmont firefighter who is certain to lose his job reacted angrily at hearing of the plan to pay CETA workers to identify their job skills, locate potential jobs and attend job interviews.

"I don't think that's fair," Bob Miller said." We've been here a lot longer. We have permanent jobs and the CETA job isn't.

"If we're going to get fired, they should be in the same boat," he said.

Among those in the county who are expected to be laid off are five firefighter trainees in the city of Brisbane.

Miller, who has been with the Belmont Fire Department for three years, said his reaction is an emotional one.

"Firefighting is not just a job. It's a career," Miller said. But he's fifth from the bottom on the list of 45 fire personnel and the city has said it will close at least one of its three fire stations.

To send the long-time city employee to the unemployment line while paying the CETA worker to look for a job is like "laying off a carpenter but keeping the apprentice," Miller said.

He expects he will have to draw unemployment at about $104 a week while he tries to set himself up in a business venture.

He's not even sure at this point if he will be able to draw retirement benefits since as many as 23 firefighters might be laid off in Belmont.

Ms. Carr, however, said the job workshop is an attempt to help a segment of the job population for which there are already funds available.

"Do you save it and have them wind up on welfare or another form of the welfare system? At least we will be productive. Not doing anything at all is not productive," she said.

"We wanted to help as many as we could and we felt this was the best way to do it," she explained.

To drop those CETA workers now, after they had been expecting a year's assistance, would be "a sad reflection on the state of affairs," she said.

When it became apparent that Prop. 13 would be approved, the CETA administrators in the Redwood City office acted swiftly. For two weeks, the staff has been frantically working to salvage what it can of public service employment and to provide those losing their jobs with the crash course in looking for something more stable.

Months ago, Ms. Carr said, CETA administration realized that the provision allowing every public service employee four hours a week to search for a job wasn't working.

One supervisor said there had been "substantial abuse" and it was difficult to determine how sincere an attempt at job hunting was being made.

Pacifica Council, Planners Have Heart-to-Heart Talk

Pacifica City Council members didn't fire any planning commissioners last week, but they made it clear that they might.

During a heart-to-heart talk with the commissioners Wednesday, council members complained that the planning commission had a reputation for stalling projects.

They spoke of shifting the environmentalist balance on the commission and appointing more commissioners with professional background in planning.

The session came as a result of a proposal by Councilman Fred Howard that all commissioners submit their resignations so that the new council could make new appointments.

Although council members did not agree to Howard's suggestion, the new pro-growth majority on the council has expressed unhappiness about some of the commissioners appointed by the previous pro-environmentalist council.

Earlier in the evening, the council interviewed applicants for a vacant spot on the planning commission caused by Jim Harrison's resignation.

Councilman Stanley Farber pointed out that, of the other six commissioners, four take an environmntalist stand on issues: John Lewis, Skip Hall, Jim Belland and Ruth Stege.

One long-time commissioner, Joe Greene, said he did not see any consistent voting pattern among commissioners during the past three years on negative declarations and environmental impact reports for projects.

"I feel we're treating each and every item on its own merits," Greene said.

Farber disagreed, mentioning "a picayunish attitude toward EIRs to the point where a developer says, 'What the heck do I want to go through that for whan I could go to another city'."

Commissioner Belland said the council could fill the opening on the commission with the person of its choice and could remove some commissioners.

"That has come to mind," Farber remarked.

Council members repeatedly stressed that they weren't trying to pick on the commission, but their criticisms raised the hackles of commissioners.

Mayor Nick Gust got the meeting rolling by saying he had heard comments that the commission lacks professionalism.

Commissioners asked Gust to be more explicit.

Gust said, "When a person comes before you and wants to spend half a million dollars, he wants some direction — not to be led along a path six months and then told the project isn't valid."

Councilwoman Ellie McGuire objected to the attitude of some commissioners. When someone comes before the commission, be it friend or stranger, she said, "You don't say, 'I think that's a lousy-looking project.' "

Mrs. McGuire mentioned that commissioners also have been "sabotaged by staff errors." She later said she didn't mean that the staff had intentionally caused problems but that prolems, nonetheless, existed.

Farber gave the specific example of a man who approached the city with plans for a church on Terra Nova Boulevard.

"He pays his fees and everything's perfect. Then, two weeks down the line, he gets a call that part of his building exceeds the 35-foot height limit," Farber said, adding that he had heard from the man Wednesday.

He noted that the result was that the project was stalled for six weeks while the man filed for a variance. Farber said people also have complained that the city is holding up plans for a skateboard rink.

Commissioner Lee Forster replied, "Unless you get a person like Jim Harrison or an architect or builder who salivates at the sight of a blueprint, things get by . . . We are not plan checkers, we are policy makers."

Calling a lack of tact inexcusable, he said it is difficult sometimes to reply calmly when a citizen takes advantage of a public meeting to lambast a commissioner.

"They know full well we can't reply. We have to 'Yes, sir' and 'No, sir' them to death," Forster said.

Forster remarked that most of the commissioners have not sat on the commission long enough to fully understand the planning process and that the city's planning staff has undergone drastic changes. He advised the council to be patient.

When Howard said he thought it advisable to include a few professional planners on the commission, Belland noted that the city doesn't have an overabundance of such people applying for the job.

"We do this time," Farber commented.

But Mrs. McGuire said there are some architects with doctorates who couldn't contribute as much as an average citizen. A former planning commissioner, she emphasized the need for continuity on the commission.

Commissioner Lewis said he compares the planning commission and City Council to Congress and a subcommittee. He noted that the commission acts as a sounding board, takes a lot of heat for the council and is able to go into matters in greater detail than the council.

"Whatever we send you, I have no problem with how you act," Lewis explained.

Howard pointed out that he would like to make some changes on the commission and still be friends. He noted that being replaced politically is not a personal reflection on an individual.

'76-'77 Wage Freeze

Two emergency resolutions which would freeze salaries at 1976-77 salary levels and give the Jefferson Union High School District Board of Trustees the option of further altering salary schedules were presented to the board by JUHSD District Superintendent Dr. Floyd Gonella.

Gonella requested board action by July 1 on the resolutions, which he said were an attempt to deal with possible revenue losses resulting from the passage of Proposition 13.

Gonella's resolutions were opposed by member s of Local 1481 of the American Federation of Teachers during a lengthy meeting Tuesday.

The resolution freezing salaries at 1976-77 schedules would exempt class, step and range advancements. It would affect all certificated, classified and administrative employees, the superintendent said.

The same resolution would reserve to the board the right to alter, adjust, increase or decrease the salary schedules and fringe benefit payments at any point during the upcoming school year.

The second resolution would establish a district policy on unpaid leaves, providing that all employees be subject to possible unpaid leaves of absence of up to 30 days during a school year.

Marcy Ballard, AFT president, presented a lengthy counter-resolution to Gonella's recommendations.

Mrs. Ballard called for the elimination of 50 percent of the school management positions at the district level, with concurrent expense account and mileage fund cutoffs. She also suggested that management consultant contracts and conferences be dropped.

The union president pressed, too, to delay the opening of schools unless financial assurances equal to 1978-79 revenues were received.

She said that layoffs should not include certificated and classified employees who provide "direct services to students in a clean, safe and healthy learning environment."

Peninsulans Helping to Solve SF's Problems?

Millbrae City Councilwoman Mary Griffin says she fears Peninsula residents are helping to solve San Francisco's financial crunch.

Mrs. Griffin told the City Council last Tuesday that she had read that the San Francisco Water Department suddenly had discovered a surplus of $6 million, which it turned over to the City of San Francisco's general fund.

That was good news to San Francisco which, like all California cities, is preparing for large losses due to Proposition 13.

Mrs. Griffin said she wondered why Peninsula water users were helping to solve San Francisco's problems.

Still smarting from recent battles with the San Francisco Water Department over its failure to reduce water rates to pre-drought levels, the Millbrae council directed its staff to inform other Peninsula water users of the transfer of funds.

City Administrator Lee Horner said it was possible Peninsula groups might unite and use legal representation to fight the transfer.

It turns out that the Hetchy Hetchy Water and Power System — not the San Francisco Water Department — has the $6 million surplus. Like the water department, Hetch Hetchy is a department of the San Francisco Public Utilities Commission, but it keeps separate books.

Eugene Kellher, acting general manager of the water department, said Wednesday, "The $6 million is not coming out of water department funds obtained from any Peninsula customers and it is not affecting any rates that Millbrae is paying for water."

Where did Hetch Hetchy find the surplus?

James Leonard, public service director for the PUC, said Hetch Hetchy has earned more money than usual since the drought ended.

"Three hydroelectric plants have been going full blast for the last five months," he noted.

Since its two biggest customers, the Modesto and Turlock irrigation districts, have needed less power than usual, Hetch Hetchy has been able to sell power at regular commercial rates to water users, Leonard explained. Most of those customers are industries.

He added that the Hetch Hetchy accounting department discovered that it had neglected to include revenues that Hetch Hetchy receives from the San Francisco Water Department in return for water that Hetch Hetchy delivers to the water department.

Instead of coming up $1.8 million short as projected, Hetch Hetchy suddenly discovered a windfall.

So, in a round-about way, water users have helped to fund Hetch Hetchy's surplus.

Leonard said Hetch Hetchy General Manager Oral Moore decided to turn the surplus over to the City of San Francisco "because he knew what desperate straits the cities are in."

According to San Francisco's city charter, Leonard explained, Hetch Hetchy is supposed to always maintain a reserve of 25 percent of its annual operating costs and any additional funds are to go to the city's general fund.

'Hotel Strip Bandit' Convicted on Counts

Paul Johnson, dubbed the airport hotel strip bandit by police, was convicted of eight felonies Wednesday stemming from a crime spree which included an assault of a nun from Michigan and several robberies of hotel guests.

Johnson, 33, of Daly City, faces sentencing July 11 by Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo.

Johnson posed as a hotel detective or sheriff's deputy in breaking into hotel rooms from South San Francisco to Redwood City. His activities continued for nearly five months before his arrest in Burlingame last March, according to prosecutor Clifford Cretan.

A jury convicted Johnson of four counts of robbery, three counts of burglary and one count of forgery. Jurors also found that he used a gun in two of the robberies and assaulted each of the victims. Those factors can add years to Johnson's sentence.

Cretan said that police initially suspected Johnson of 14 or more crimes but that witness problems limited the scope of prosecution.

Witnesses during the week-long trial included a nun who described her beating. She suffered partial loss of hearing.

Cretan said that Johnson's burglaries and robberies netted from $100 to $1,000 each.

The Times

Le Pacini

It was difficult to reconcile those three consecutive last-at-bat, one run losses the Giants suffered to the Phillies during their recent road trip, although one always should consider that while the Giants were blowing their slim leads, the big favorites, Cincinnati and Los Angeles, more than once blew bigger leads against inferior opponents. It's heartbreaking only if it's your team.

It is hoped that some good came out of that troika of constricted throats, because there was a lesson to be learned from it. What beat the Giants in every one of those games was as much their lack of bench as it was the Phillies' abundance of same. That's why the Giants couldn't hold their late leads.

THE PHILLIES would march their bench hitters to the plate and take the lead and the Giants could counter with only Vic Harris and Skip James.

All season I, along with other writers, and the Giants' front office, have known that the Giants need more on the splinter counter, but they kept winning in spite of that, and maybe after a while the need didn't seem quite so desperate.

But the Phillies, bless their hearts, confirmed that without something more off the bench the Giants could be in deep trouble, deeper and deeper as the long season progresses.

FOR BOB LURIE'S sake, and for the sake of the future of major league baseball in San Francisco, I hope that such discouraging losses don't detract from the Giants' ultimate gate total, which at this point shows the biggest increase over last season than any other team in the majors except Kansas City.

I don't think those kinds of losses will keep people away, because as frustrating as they were, it was exciting baseball. What will keep customers away is dull losses; not the kind in which the Giants are always in the game. As I said here during the winter, the Giants don't have to win a pennant to draw well. All they have to do is look good and be entertaining while being reasonably close. Winning it all would be a bonus.

And there is no doubt about it; the Giants have been entertaining. Don't forget, they've still won more one run and/or extra inning games than they've lost, and they've still come from behind more often than their opponents.

ONE OF their best stage tricks is that they never do things the easy way, or have you noticed that they seem to score more often when they have two outs and no men on base than they do when they have two on and no outs? Or that there is seldom such a thing as a routine pop fly for them when they are on defense? (One of these days, one of their classic collisions is going to be fatal.)

Speaking of death wishes, the Reds seem to have one — shedding themselves of the commodity they most need: pitchers.

There is, of course, the famous case of their not willing to pay Don Gullett what he was worth, whereupon they lost him to the Yankees. He then went on to be possibly the key figure in the Yankees' World Series victory. True, Gullett's arm miseries have kept him mostly out of the Yankee picture thus far this year, but he appears on the mend, and I have a hunch he would be looking good to the Reds right about now as an edge for the stretch run that promises to happen.

THEY GAVE up on Jack Billingham in the spring, and he's now one of Detroit's more reliable starters. They had former Giant southpaw Mike Caldwell briefly, but didn't give him much of a chance, and now he's Milwaukee's leading starting pitcher.

They traded big with Montreal (giving up southpaw reliever Will McEnaney and Tony Perez) to get righty reliever Dale Murray and starting lefty Woodie Fryman. They couldn't keep Fryman happy so he retired, made a comeback, and is currently back at Montreal, after a period with the Cubs, pitching as well as most of the Reds; and they traded Murray off to the Mets recently and he, too, is pitching as well, if not better than, any reliever the Reds currently have going for them.

WHILE I'M certainly glad that local kid Jim Fregosi has been given his shot at managing in the big leagues, adding to the roll call of Italian managers (Joe Altobelli, Tom Lasorda, Herman Franks, Billy Martin . . . and what ever happened to Frank Luchessi?)

I also have to have great empathy for disposed manager Dave Garcia, whose team was, after all, only 1½ games out of first place when he was fired. As this is written, in fact, the Angels have drifted another full game off the lead.

This move by owner Gene Autry harkens back to the disposition in 1960 of another Bay Area kid, who, ironically, ended up as an Angel manager.

THAT WAS the year Bill Rigney had the Giants just 4½ games out of first place 58 games into the season but was fired by Horace Stoneham, who replaced him with drinking buddy Clancy Sheehan, who promptly took the Giants to fifth place, playing four games under .500 ball while he held the reins.

And please, friends of Fregosi from South San Francisco, understand that I in no way mean to compare Jim with Sheehan. I'm comparing incidents, not men. So no letters.

BASEBALL MISCELLANEY: If you're wondering how Montreal "stays up there," you shouldn't. It's no freak. Not only are they getting some of the National League's better pitching, but only Los Angeles, Cincinnati and Philadelphia have higher team batting averages and more home runs, and the Expos have even scored more runs than the Phillies!

Continuing my war on the doubters of Babe Ruth's greatness, please remember that only recently did Bill Lee break the Babe's record of wins for a Boston southpaw when he won his 90th game in a Red Sox uniform. At that, Lee is in his 10th year of pitching for Boston.

Ruth won his 89 in six years, one in which he appeared in only five games, and two others in which he was more involved in playing the outfield. Actually, he was doing some double duty in all six seasons he was with Boston.

I COULDN'T help feeling, as I was watching that heavyweight "title" fight between Ken Norton and Larry Holmes, that all I was really seeing was two good club fighters put on the kind of show I might have seen at Kezar Pavilion 15 years ago.

Muhammad Ali made perhaps the most profound comment amidst the flurry of "in-depth" soliloquies being thrown around by Howard Cosell and friends.

When, after the fight, Frank Gifford asked Ali for his analysis of the fight and of the heavyweight situation, Ali said, seriously and quite accurately, "Well, that means that now Holmes and Leon Spinks both hold pieces of the title and they're both ugly."

And that was about all that really could have been said.

LOCAL NOTE: Mike Mitchell, the flashy guard from Capuchino who will be playing next year for Notre Dame, recently was listed 29th on a list of 100 high school basketball stars as rated by the Knoxville News-Sentinel in a yearly poll which includes evaluations from scouts, writers, coaches, pro advisors and other basketball experts.

END OF THE YEAR ACTIVITY

Students at Garden Village School in Colma participated in a variety of field day events June 14. Among the competitors was Larnie Bryant (photo above), a second-grader at the school. Sack-runner at right was not identified. Bill Muylaert, fifth-sixth grade teacher, planned and directed the activity, which included such events as a soccer obstacle course, broad jump, "Critter Crawl" and 440 relay.

And Recreation

Daly City Dolphin Swimmers

AAU Competition

Local Daly City Dolphins recently competed in the AAU county-wide swim carnival held in San Mateo for "B", "A", and "AA" swimmers, 18 and under.

The event, the first held since the end of the high school swim season, attracted the older swimmers back to most teams and drew more than 1,000 entries in the two-day event.

Dolphin Rich Segol took eighth in the 400 meter freestyle and the 200 meter intermediate medley in the "A" division.

Bill Beedle took first place in the 100 yard freestyle and achieved "A" time in the "B" division as did his brother Brett with an "A" time in 400 I.M.

Mathhew Foge, 7, took a sixth in the 100 meter and eighth in the 100 I.M., 25 freestyle, 25 butterfly and 50 freestyle in the "8 and under" boys races.

In the relay races which climaxed the meet, the Dolphins girls team of M. Dawkins, R. Lamsam, L. Rogers and T. Stuckert took fifth in the 200 freestyle relay.

The boys relay team of D. Dawkins, P. Chai, T. Horn and Bill Beedle took seventh in the 200 freestyle relay.

And the younger relay team of M. Chamberlin, E. Calais, T. Brunell and J. Roarty took eighth in the 200 medley relay.

Dolphin practice will continue from 5:30 to 7 p.m. today with the special Wednesday hours.

Team practice Thursday and Friday, Monday and Tuesday will be from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. with swim team try-outs every weekday at the beginning of practice.

New members need only swim the length of the pool twice, using any stroke to qualify. One parent must accompany each new swimmer and should check in with Coach Chip Zimmerman when arriving.

On June 24 and 25 the Dolphins will compete with other area AAU teams at the Add Jane meet for B and younger swimmers.

"A" timed swimmers will compete in Palo Alto, both days.

SSF Edges The Goose

South San Francisco's American Legion League team ran its record to 3-0 by downing the San Bruno Lions, 15-9, over the weekend.

Steve Bertolozzi, who missed the end of South City High's season with tendonitis in his right elbow, went the full nine innings to pick up the victory. Bertolozzi is now 2-0 in American Legion League play.

In other Legion games played over the weekend, San Bruno Legion split a pair of games defeating Redwood City 5-2 on Tommy Flynn's four hitter and losing 7-4 to Pacifica. Also, the San Bruno Lions whipped San Francisco 14-5 in a non-league contest.

Flynn, who along with twin brother Lenny, forms a brother and brother battery, relieved for the San Bruno Legion against Pacifica and did an admirable job. He pitched a total of 14 innings in two days.

Shamrocks, LBYA Teams Share First

In the Daly City Recreation Division's Sixth Grade Eastern Division of the Boys Baseball League, the PAL Shamrocks and Lions Better Youth Association tied for first place with identical 7-3 records.

The LBYA team, on its way to a tie for first place, defeated the PAL Savages 7 to 5, OLM 14 to 10 and ended the season with a win over St. Andrews.

The Shamrocks claimed their wins over the SAL Flyers 7 to 5, PAL Savages 13 to 7, SAL Flyers 22 to 10 and OLM 19 to 5. J. Pagani and G. Ibarrentos led the Shamrock hitters to their lofty position in the standings.

The PAL Savages claimed second place with wins over OLM 21 to 8, SAL Flyers 5 to 0, St. Andrews Scots 8 to 7 and OLM 27 to 12.

Roy Keegan's pitching has kept the Savages close all season long.

The St. Andrews Scots placed third as they rolled to wins over the SAL Flyers 25 to 18, OLM 16 to 11 and upset the PAL Shamrocks 12 to 11 in a real cliffhanger. DeLuna and Carcamo were outstanding on the mound for the Scots.

In the Sixth Grade Western Division, the SAL Roadrunners went undefeated as they claimed victories over St. Thomas More 9 to 6, LBYA 8 to 3, St. Andrews 8 to 6 and OLM 10 to 3.

Morales, Tsuji, Keven Salaiz and Kevin Manley have been outstanding pitchers for the Roadrunners over the course of the season. OLM and LBYA ended the season tied for second place. The LBYA defeated St. Andrews 15 to 8 and in extra innings they downed the third place St. Thomas More Bronco's 15 to 12. Posey and McDonell combined to pitch St. Thomas More to a 20 to 6 win over OLM.

DiMaggio Action

SSF Legion Team Wins

Flying Goose's skein of consecutive Joe DiMaggio League wins was snapped Sunday at Daly City's Marchbank Park as visiting South San Francisco topped FG, 5-3, in eight innings and, 8-5, in the nightcap.

Flying Goose (Daly City) had won 12 straight games this year including its Peninsula Joe DiMaggio League opener (4-2 over SSF on Wednesday). But South City, the defending league champ, served notice to everyone that it will be in contention again this year by two-timing Goose.

Meanwhile, San Bruno and Millbrae completed series sweeps over Eureka Federal Savings (San Mateo) and Lou & Dave's 66 (Pacifica), respectively, to stay atop the league standings with 3-0 records.

San Bruno beat EFS 5-1 and 3-2 and Millbrae whipped Lou & Dave's 9-6 in the opener and then blanked them 5-0 in the second game.

Lucky celebrates the birth of the American Flag

Days of AMERICA

Join us in the celebration

A Special Television Presentation by Lucky. To celebrate the birthday of this country's independence, Lucky is proud to present "THE 21 DAYS OF AMERICA" as a public service to the community.

In 21 one-minute vignettes (featuring such celebrities as Bruce Jenner, Bob Hope, Joe Namath, Vikki Carr, Donny & Marie Osmond, Cicely Tyson, Frank Gifford, O. J. Simpson, and Kirk Douglas to name a few) prominent Americans will describe the history of each flag that has flown over the United States. From the famous "Don't Tread on Me" flag through the Betsy Ross Flag, to today's Stars and Stripes, the colorful history of our country will unfold.

We hope you will join with Lucky in the celebration of the "21 DAYS OF AMERICA" on KPIX Channel 5 in San Francisco, KXTV Channel 10 in Sacramento, which began on June 14th (Flag Day) and will run through July 4th! On KPIX 21 Days can be seen between 12:00 noon-12:30, 5:00-5:30 p.m. and at 7:00 p.m. on KXTV at 12:27 p.m., 4:50 p.m. and 6:58 p.m.

6,717,578 Lines of Classified Advertising

★ ★ ★

430,611 Classified Ads

These are the record figures The Times' Classified Advertising Department achieved during 1977. More lines of Classified Advertising and more Classified Ads than any previous year in the 88-year history of The Times.

The reason these records were established in 1977 is simple, more and more people are learning that classified advertising really works. It worked for a record number of people last year and it can work for you this year. Just give us a call, we'll show you how.

1 Include The Price...

Advertising price in an ad promises greater response. Research shows that 48% of the people will not respond to an ad unless the price is advertised. That's almost half of your prospective buyers eliminated. If your price is negotiable say so in your ad.

2 Don't Use Abbreviations...

Another way to kill results or turn off prospective buyers is to use abbreviations. WSW, PS, CBS, PB, AC, AT, WW may be clear to you, but maybe not to your buyers and most will not take the time to figure them out. One survey showed that 42% of readers didn't know what "WSW" tire meant.

3 Give Enough Information...

People today want all the information they can get before they buy. People want to know all the benefits of what they purchase. Not listing all you can in your ad will cause it to run longer with fewer results. Use brand names for extra pulling power.

4 Stay Near Your Phone...

If you're home all the time, including just a phone number in your ad is enough. If you work or can't be home, specify what hours you can be reached. Some people will never call back if they can't reach you the first time.

We have six San Mateo County newspapers to deliver your message and three conveniently located San Mateo County offices to serve you.

Brisbane Proceeds With Police-Fire Force

Brisbane is scheduled to switch from separate police and fire departments to a public safety department by July 1—a move that will result in the layoff of 12 of the city's 14 firefighters.

Brisbane City Manager Brad Kerwin said the move is the result of reduced property tax revenues expected from the passage of Proposition 13. He said the yearly cost of each firefighter is about $27,000, including salary and benefits.

The City Council currently is considering a $1.2 million budget proposal, down from the current $1.6 million budgeted for the city of 3,000.

Kerwin said he is concerned that "deliberate political scare tactics" have resulted in fears by some residents that there will be no fire protection after July 1.

Kerwin said he is confident the proposed arrangement, which would utilize the city's 10-person police force to double as firefighters, will work.

He said the police force is beginning firefighting training and will carry some equipment, such as extinguishers, in police vehicles. The police efforts in firefighting will be augmented by the fire staff of two (the chief and assistant chief).

He pointed out that the assistant chief is the department's training officer, who will be in charge of the reserve associate program. Recruitment of paid reserves is to begin soon.

Kerwin said he does not yet know how many reserves the city will hire, but said the public safety department arrangement is planned for two police officers and two reserves to respond to fire calls.

Kerwin's suggested cuts in the fire department have upset some residents, who have formed a group called Concerned Citizens Advisory Committee on the Budget.

Led by Jim Baker and supported by some fire personnel, the group is petitioning the City Council for a citywide vote on retaining the present police and fire services.

Kerwin said that in addition to the 12 fire personnel scheduled to be cut, he has recommended that three recreation employees and two administrative clerks be laid off because of finances.

He said the recreation cut will end most staff services in that area.

The city manager also said the public safety department might show a reduction in fire services at first, but he added, "We will be able to respond to any emergency situation."

Parents Might Not Cast First Stone

Criticizing schools for doing a poor job of teaching isn't a brand-new trend, James Brien told the Pacifica Chamber of Commerce.

As superintendent of the Laguna Salada Union School District, Brien has observed that people never stop complaining about the education their children receive.

He discovered a newspaper article written in 1856 that said there was a need for more thoroughness in teaching spelling and reading.

Laughing, Brien said he even learned about an Assyrian stone tablet etched in 2800 B.C. that reads, "Children no longer obey their parents. Everyone wants to write a book. The end of the world is evidently approaching."

He asked the chamber members whether adults really have the skills they supposedly have learned.

From the constant flow of letters he receives from parents, Brien has inferred there's room for improvement among adults, too.

For example, he quoted a letter he received from a parent last week. It read, in part: "This matter has been discuss (sic) in depth with the principals of both schools and this letter is simply to make this recommendation offial (sic) on my part. Again, thank you both for your corruption (sic) on this matter."

And what about the sad lack of discipline in today's schools? Brien said, "Perhaps you all went to school in places where the seats were all lined up in neat rows . . . My seventh-grade science class was a real zoo."

He recalled that the teacher of that class had thrown an eraser at a pupil and the pupil had promptly thrown it back.

Brien also described his 10th-grade study hall, where all 120 students conspired to drop their textbooks at the same moment in order to rile the teacher.

"I guess none of you did things like that," he said, as the audience tittered.

During his senior year, Brien said, the entire school lined up for a year-end portrait that was made with a camera that slowly panned the crowd from left to right. Three seniors managed to run from one end of the gathering to the other before the picture was completed, so that they appeared in both ends of the picture.

Brien spoke matter-of-factly about the passage of Proposition 13, acknowledging that few people could resist the urge to vote away taxes.

He said he has been busy lobbying in Sacramento to try to convince the legislators to be more sparing in their budget cuts of poor districts like Laguna Salada.

Meanwhile, the district has begun making cuts by eliminating summer school. Brien explained that no state money will be available for summer programs. However, the district is paying about $4,000 to try to help about 100 seventh- and eighth-graders with severe academic problems this summer.

If Laguna Salada's budget is cut by 10 percent, Brien said, the district will lose $1.3 million.

"We really don't think we have any fat. If you can find some, we will be glad to cut it out," he noted.

He pointed out that the entire district office staff costs $500,000, so wiping it out wouldn't begin to solve the problem.

Another dilemma is that fully 90 percent of the district's budget goes toward salaries and benefits. Like other school districts, Laguna Salada is in the sticky situation of being unable to break contracts with teachers.

The collective bargaining law forbids districts from cutting salaries after July 1.

"We can repeal the salary schedule, but if we do, we will probably get slapped with an unfair labor practice charge," Brien said.

Despite its continuous standing as a little-wealth-district, Brien noted with pride that reading scores at all grade levels have risen over 20 percent in the past 10 years and that Laguna Salada students rank at about the 75th percentile in the state.

He pledged to continue the battle for better education with fewer dollars.

CHIEF MEL NELSON

Last day today in Pacifica.

Nelson Moves On After 19 Years

By TERRY DAVENPORT

The selection process was rigorous.

Out of 228 persons who applied for the job, 38 seemed to merit careful screening. An outside consultant gave them two tests to ascertain their management skills. Twelve passed.

A group of strangers then measured the skills of the 12 survivors, putting each through 12 hours of testing. The interviewers didn't even know their names. Eight passed.

City officials extensively interviewed these eight individuals. They chose three finalists.

The final choice was made after the three front-runners endured psychological screening, lie detector tests, background checks by detectives and three-hour medical exams.

Mel Nelson got the job.

Nelson's last day as Pacifica police chief is today.

After serving nearly 19 years with the Pacifica Police Department, he will become police chief for the City of Livermore Monday.

Nelson, 42, was selected for the job over two other finalists: San Jose Police Capt. Gordon Ballard and Coalinga Police Chief Kay Holloway.

He will receive a slight pay boost, from the $32,004 annual salary in Pacifica to $33,200 in Livermore.

Nelson said his main reason for leaving is the challenge that lies ahead in Livermore. That city has been without a police chief for four months. The previous chief, Ronald Lindgren, left after being charged with sexually molesting young boys.

"Livermore has a lot of morale problems, some management problems and a lack of community trust. They went through a pretty traumatic thing," Nelson explained.

While he still sees some challenges ahead in Pacifica, Nelson said his job had become pretty predictable.

According to Nelson, Livermore is "really altogether. It has a good general plan, a good staff and a lot of resources."

A resident of Pacifica since 1959, Nelson said he, his wife and two children are sorry to be leaving so many close friends.

Nelson remarked that Pacifica is a good community for problem solving. "You can bang on people's doors and they're willing to help."

Nelson added that he'll miss working with a young, multiracial community and its outstanding city officials — in particular City Manager Donald Weidner.

He is grateful that all the city councils he has worked with have backed his decisions — "I believe in risk management. If you don't take risks, you don't really problem solve, you just keep the waves down."

Perhaps Nelson's biggest contribution to Pacifica has been his work with juveniles. He first got involved in July 1968, when huge mobs of youths rioted in protest of a recently enacted anti-loitering ordinance. At one point, 250 police officers converged at the Linda Mar Shopping Center, where the riots took place.

Nelson, a sergeant at the time, asked for the position of juvenile officer and helped establish programs for youths, including an employment service and a teen center. He also became one of the first board members of Pacifica's Youth Service Bureau.

He was chosen a captain in 1969 and, when Police Chief Neil Tremaine retired in 1970, Nelson was appointed chief.

During his career, he's had his share of tense moments. Once he watched five men shoot it out in a moving car. Two of the men died.

Nelson has been held at gunpoint twice. In 1966, he arrived at a home to try to quell a domestic quarrel and the distraught husband held him at gunpoint for 25 minutes until Nelson talked him down.

In 1973, a man who had been supplying him with narcotics information arrived at Nelson's office and confessed that he had just killed his girlfriend.

When Nelson asked the man how he had killed her, the man replied, "I shot her." Nelson asked, "Where's the gun?" and the man pulled it out of his pocket and pointed it at Nelson.

He was trapped in his office for 45 minutes before convincing the man to let him leave. After alerting his officers, Nelson returned and the man said he was going to kill himself.

Nelson shut the door, and the man shot himself dead.

Nelson is concerned with rising crime statistics, particularly those reflecting juvenile crimes because Pacifica has more youths per capita than any other city in the county.

Nevertheless, Nelson has managed to defer many from the juvenile justice system by referring them to counseling centers such as the Youth Service Bureau. Compared to the 1,183 juvenile arrests Pacifica police made in 1969, there were only 542 in 1972. Nelson said the count has remained stable ever since.

Nelson remarked that he thinks the answer to the increasing problems with youth is that people must quit dealing with the symptoms. In his opinion, there needs to be more family unity.

"People are going to have to be supportive of the churches, the community and civic groups and quit defending their children when they are wrong," he noted.

Nelson is certain that one new program, the six-officer Crime Prevention Unit, is already a success. Since they began cracking down in January, crimes in two of their target areas — burglaries and larcenies — are down. However, crime in the third target area, vandalism, is up.

Condos Rapped

The presentation of an environmental impact report for a proposed 260-unit condominium proposal raised some critical comments from several Serramonte residents at a Daly City Planning Commission meeting last week.

The report was presented by consultant Irena Torrey on behalf of Demavandi Enterprises and Frumenti Development Co.p. of Los Altos.

The developers propose the townhouse project, Serramonte Highlands, for location on a 14.5-acre site between Interstate 280 and Hampshire Avenue, northerly of Verducci Court.

The sloping site is adjacent to another condominium project recently approved by the Planning Commission and City Council.

Residents who opposed the recent Monte Vista condominium development focused on some of the same concerns — traffic, the appearance of the proposed development and the fate of the hillside views that nearby residents enjoy.

The Planning Commission made no decisions on the matter, but will continue discussion of the preliminary plan in July.

In other business, the commission denied an application by Michel Abeid to allow operation of a used car lot at 3356 San Jose Ave. The commission expressed concern about the project's location in a section of the redevelopment area that has not been allocated for such uses. The size of the parcel and its sloping site also were considered as detrimental factors, according to Acting City Planner Tom Miller.

In other actions, the commission approved use permits for a restaurant to be located at 311 E. Market St. and a car wash to be operated at 2323 Geneva Ave.

The commission also approved a zone change from multiple-family residential to industrial designation to allow Pacific Gas and Electric Co. to construct a regional service center in the future.

Visiting Studend Robbed — He's Leaving for Home

A German student backpacking through the United States decided to return home Thursday instead of going on to San Diego after being robbed of $260 on top of San Bruno Mountain, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Gunther Georg Kraft, 19, of Pforring, Germany, told deputies he was hitchhiking on an onramp to Interstate 280 near Daly City when he was picked up by a white man driving a pickup truck with wide tires.

He said the man drove back to San Francisco, saying he wanted to sell a lamp, but would take him back to Highway 1.

The man was joined by two black men who asked him if he wanted to buy some "Columbian gold," Kraft reported. He said he declined because of lack of funds.

The three drove him to Radio Road on top of San Bruno Mountain, where they took his passport containing the money at the point of a gun and ordered him to run, Kraft said.

Kraft, who was put in touch with the German consul, said he had been in the Bay Area two days and was on his way to San Diego. Instead, he told deputies, he will return directly home.
